

BOISE (UPI).— The senate passed 34-9 and sent to the governor for signature Wednesday a bill which will allow both males and females to marry at the age of 18 without parental consent. Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, told the senate present law provides females may marry at 18 without consent but males must be 21 to do so. Barker said the age change is the first of a series of measures expected to extend "responsibilities" to 18-year-olds as well as the voting privilege.

Nixon prods Demo solon

Congress will be great. There are more candidates for the presidency in this chamber today than there probably have been at any one time in the whole history of the republic. There is an honest division of opinion, not only between the parties but within the parties on some issues of foreign policy and domestic policy as well."

Nixon did not enunciate a shopping list of legislative demands but he noted the election-year session "already has before it more than 90 major administration proposals which still await action."

"1972 is before us," he said. "It holds precious time in which to accomplish good for this nation. We must not waste it."

The President assayed the state of the union in these words:

"Surveying the certainty of rapid change, we can be like a fallen rider caught in the stirrups—or we can sit high in the saddle, the masters of change, directing it in the course we choose."

The President supplemented his half-hour address with a 15,000-word written message that contained additional detail, particularly about what he termed "the unfinished agenda."

Nixon provided few details of his new program either in the speech or written message, but he stressed it was intended to create jobs and to help American industry compete in world markets.

He said of his new special program on technology:

"Among these proposals will be an increase next year of $700 million in civilian research and development spending, a 15 per cent increase over last year's level and a 65 per cent increase over 1969."

'Year of action'

Without revealing the exact total, Nixon said the budget he will send to Congress Monday will increase the $78.8 billion spending for defense although the military budget as a percentage of the gross national product will continue to decline.

"Strong military defenses are not the enemy of peace," he asserted. "They are the guar-

The President announced also he will spell out later a new method of financing the public schools to relieve some of the burden of the hard-pressed property taxpayer. But he said that program would not be ready for submission to Congress until later in the year.

He renewed his call for welfare reform, revenue sharing, health care, environmental protection, government reorganization and a host of other programs which stalled in the legislative machinery last year.

"1971 was a year of consideration of these measures," Nixon said. "Now let us join in making 1972 a year of action of them."

action by the Congress, for the nation and for the people of America."

Despite the long catalog of still unfinished business, Nixon contrasted his three years in office with the strife-filled final years of the administration of his Democratic predecessor, Lyndon B. Johnson.

"When I took the oath of office on the steps of this building just three years ago today, the nation was ending one of the most tortured decades in its history," the President recalled. "To recall these troubles is not to point fingers of blame."

But he said, "The nation has made significant progress in these first years of the 70s. Our cities are no longer engulfed by civil disorders. Our colleges and universities have again become places of learning instead of battlegrounds."

A beginning has been made on preserving and protecting the environment. The rate of increase in crime has been slowed.

Most important, the year

1972 can be the year in which America may make the greatest progress in 25 years toward achieving our goal of being at peace with all the nations of the world," Nixon said.

Coast guard takes Red ships to port

JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI) —

The skippers of two Soviet ships seized by the Coast Guard on charges of violating U.S. fishing regulations agreed Wednesday to sail to Adak, Alaska, under the escort of the Coast Guard cutter Storis.

The decision to sail under custody to a U.S. port came after the Soviet vessels had drifted at sea for more than 24 hours in a test of wills with the Storis, which seized them Monday night.

The Russians had denied violating U.S. fishing regulations.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the trip to Adak would be rough because the ships would fight their way through heavy packed ice.

The winding, a very difficult way over the ocean, and it's dark most of the time up there," he said. "The latest word we had was that the vessels were going to proceed over to a Russian supply ship and take on some water and then get under way."

The Russian backdown, which apparently came on instructions from Moscow, ended a confrontation in the ice-packed Bering Sea that began Monday night, according to administration officials.

The two Russian vessels, the factory ship Lamut and a companion stern trawler, the Kolyvan, were seized by the Coast Guard icebreaker Storis within the 12-mile U.S. fishing limit off Alaska's St. Matthew Island, and boarding parties went aboard.

The Lamut broke away and attempted to flee with U.S. Coast Guardsmen aboard, but surrendered again without a shot after a two-hour nighttime chase during which the Storis had permission to fire warning shots across the Soviet vessel's bow.

Vladimir Artemov, commander of the Soviet 80-ship Bering Sea fishing fleet aboard the Lamut, was arrested and transferred to the Storis early Tuesday. Then the Russians, denying any violation of U.S. fishing regulations, refused demands to sail on to Adak Island in the Aleutian chain 200 miles to the south.

The Russians insisted they strayed accidentally into U.S. fishing waters seeking shelter from heavy ice and "unforeseen circumstances." The Soviet Embassy offered to permit Artemov to go to Adak with his Coast Guard captors if the two vessels were freed, but the United States apparently refused.

During the impasse, State Department officials said there was "a lot of jawboning going on" between the Coast Guard and the Russians, but the two sides merely drifted at sea until the Russians gave in.

Gem advisory council endorses Andrus' plan

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Idaho Mental Retardation and Child Development Advisory Council Wednesday endorsed recommendations of Gov. Cecil Andrus for placing child-development programs under Department of Public Assistance jurisdiction.

In a resolution unanimously approved by the board, members went even further, voicing their support to a proposed bill of State Sen. Michael Mitchell for transferring the Mental Retardation, Child Development and State Hospital and School to the Department of Public Assistance. These facilities currently operate under the Department of Health.

In calling for the change, members of the council expressed a strong desire to continue the program under the direction of Dr. John Marx, who headed the state hospital at Nampa, until being named to direct the DPA.

Members expressed appreciation to Dr. T. O. Carver, Health Department administrator, for his assistance in helping retarded children but favored a change to DPA on the basis of more financial aid and a closer association with the department where many of the children first come to the attention of state officials.

Dr. Carver told the board he did not believe their hope for greater financial contributions through federal funds under DPA would be realized. He also pointed out many problems of the retarded requiring health department attention.

Another resolution was approved by the group calling for state legislation to bring Idaho's wage hour law into line with the federal law as one means of being able to provide parents at the cottages at the Idaho State School in Nampa.

Members said this might not solve the entire problem, but would help. Considerable loss of facilities has resulted from closure of the cottages, and many children needing the experience of family living at the school are not receiving it, members said. Parents must be retained on a 24-hour basis if the cottages are to be utilized.

Advisory board members decided to meet at the next opportunity with the state board of health to discuss the Idaho law which provides equal educational opportunity for all children. Michael Southcombe, attorney, Boise, told members the law requires school districts to "provide educational opportunity" for all children, including mentally retarded.

It does not prescribe how the district shall carry out the order, he said, which would indicate one district could take advantage of the opportunity to transfer such children to an adjoining district where special education facilities are available.

Advisory board members will ask the Department of Education to see the regulation is carried out for the benefit of all handicapped children.

Dr. John Edwards, Council chairman, said if the council is not abolished under the current situation, it will meet next month in Idaho Falls or Pocatello.

Dr. Carver told council members they further clouded their future by the resolution to move from the Department of Health to the Department of Public Assistance. Dr. Edwards said should the action be culminated and should the DPA feel the need of an advisory board, the board will probably continue to function.

Broader program outlined

TWIN FALLS — Possibilities of establishing group homes in connection with child development centers. The broader care program for mentally retarded in Idaho were under consideration today by members of the Idaho Mental Retardation Advisory Council.

In connection with plans for group home programs in Idaho, members of the Mental Retardation and Child Development Advisory Council heard an address Wednesday by Joseph K. Thomas, assistant supervisor of community services with the Department of Social and Health Services, Washington.

Purpose of such homes, Thomas said, is to provide a home living atmosphere away from the institution where they would have to be separated from their familiar surroundings. The group homes, he said, provide 24-hour care for persons interested in such work, and can be located in various parts of the state to avoid taking the child too far from his own family and community.

Thomas recommended a maximum of 20 persons in any one group home, saying larger numbers result in the return of an institution condition.

Washington, Thomas said, began with the enactment of a "Group Homes Bill" by the state legislature in 1969. Similar action would probably be required in Idaho, he said. At present, Washington has 22 group homes certified for residential care and 200 residents in 12 group homes in groups of 6, 10 and 20.

Thomas said the program is growing and by 1973 it is believed 500 or more persons can be housed in the group home system.

The 1973 appropriation is more than $14 million, he said, and with this fund available and with its matching capabilities for Federal Social Security Funds, we do not anticipate problems in reaching our goals.

Thomas said in some communities residents are hesitant to accept "the homes" for retarded in their immediate neighborhoods.

To combat this, he said, we find putting neighborhood residents and other community representatives on group home advisory boards brings them into close contact with the program, spurs their interest and helps the community and the mentally retarded.

Thomas listed building requirements, licensing procedure and other regulatory factors of the program in Washington.

FAA official speaks to TF licensed pilots

TWIN FALLS — Josh Mann, aeronautical education expert with the Federal Aviation Administration at Oklahoma City, told 183 aviation minded individuals most of them licensed pilots — that fatigue is the major cause of general aviation accidents.

The official one of a team of lecturers on physiological operations said general aviation, private pilots, businessmen pilots and corporation pilots is not really as dangerous as some people believe. For instance, in the past year there were more than 60,000 transportation accidents of which 1,250 fatalities were in the general aviation field. During that same time there were 1470 people killed at grade crossing accidents, 1,960 killed in motor-vehicle mishaps and 850 killed while riding bicycles.

Mann discussed the effect of hypoxia — the reduction of available oxygen — on pilots hyperventilation, the act of breathing too rapidly, and disorientation which is false sensations brought about through effect of the sensory organs — the eyes, inner ear and skeletal muscles.

He warned against the use of any kind of drug while piloting a plane and said pilots should check with their doctor as to what effect medicine being consumed may have on their reactions.

By drug, I do not mean hard drugs, Mann said. I mean prescription drugs and drugs you buy off the counter, such as cold pills. And I also say that if you take two or more aspirin then stay on the ground.

Also speaking briefly at the session was Jack Van Der Reit, FAA safety official, Boise, and Leo Peirce, chief of the Flight Service Station at Hurley.

The meeting, held at the college of Southern Idaho, was sponsored by the Twin Falls Flyers, Inc. and Lloyd Shewmaker, president presided.

Disorientation was explained and demonstrated as volunteers rode the vertigo chair. The sensation gained from riding the chair is the same as that felt when visual contact is lost while in visual flight rules.

MEMOIRS reveal Hughes' beliefs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reclusive billionaire Howard Hughes in purported memoirs published Wednesday claims it is possible to keep a man's death hidden for several years through use of computerized voice tapes which can continue to communicate and even answer questions completely in character, by means of telephone.

The book, "My Life and Opinions," edited by Robert P. Eaton, was published by Best Books Press less than two weeks after a voice alleged to be Hughes was heard in a telephone interview by seven reporters who had known him before he disappeared from sight in 1956. The reporters and experts reading voice tapes said the voice was that of Hughes.

The interview was called so Hughes could back up his attorneys' denials that another book about his life was authentic.

That book, allegedly based on interviews with Hughes taped by novelist Clifford Irving, is scheduled for publication in March by McGraw-Hill Books. Another in a series of court hearings on an application by Hughes' attorneys and a Hughes-dominated corporation to quash the Irving autobio-

TF bank directors re-elected

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co.'s 66th annual stockholders meeting was held Tuesday.

Stockholders attending the annual meeting re-elected seven directors and heard a report of another successful year for 1971.

Harry Eaton, chairman of the board and president, reported to stockholders total resources in the past year reached $44.4 million. The bank's capital funds at year's end of 1971 on a cash basis at $3.4 million, exclusive of reserves and after provision for income taxes and after payment of dividend to stockholders.

Directors elected include Glen Briggs, Murtaugh, Charlotte M. Link, Hansen, Willard M. Rees, and R. D. McKinney, both Kimberley; Harry Eaton, Curtis T. Eaton and Iva B. Skinner, all Twin Falls. Directors were to meet at 10 a.m. today for a reorganizational meeting.

"Where'd you get those secret papers?"

Official asks appraisal of school lands

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's lieutenant governor Wednesday asked the Finance Appropriations Committee chairman for legislation requiring appraisal of all non-compensated school endowment grounds.

A suit has been filed against the state in U.S. District Court alleging $28 million was lost to the endowment funds through placement of lands in the state park system without compensation.

Gov. Jack Murphy said in 1969 he brought the matter to the legislature's attention. He added at that time he estimated the state owed about $7.5 million to the school endowment fund.

As a result of a similar case in Arizona, he said, it appeared courts would "not tolerate the use of endowment grounds without adequate and just compensation by either sale or lease of said grounds."

Murphy noted it appeared at the present the state of Idaho is in no financial position to consider liquidating the present debt and, because of that, is asking for legislation to require appraisal to determine the value of the grounds.

He said arrangements for payment to the fund could be made by entering into contracts to allow the state to acquire title or lease to the grounds.

Coordination need scored

BOISE (UPI) — The state superintendent of public instruction said Wednesday that better coordination of efforts would lead to a more complete vocational program in Idaho schools.

D.F. Engelking told the House Education Committee that there are at present three agencies involved in vocational education but they are not coordinating their efforts.

Rep. E.G. Jenkins, R-Nampa, pressed Engelking on the time schedule involved in instituting full-scale vocational training programs in public schools.

Engelking said the ideal situation would be to have a junior

Gas tax hike said necessary

BOISE (UPI) — A state highway engineer told the House and Senate Transportation Committees Wednesday that without a gas tax increase there would be no construction of primary, secondary or urban area roads during fiscal 1973.

Elmer Mathes told the committees he thought income anticipated from the present gasoline tax would be used for work on the interstate highway system and to finance a replacement for the Defiance Memorial

Bill strengthens 'rights' group

BOISE (UPI) — The State Affairs Committee of the Senate voted Wednesday to introduce a bill strengthening the Idaho Commission on Human Rights.

The bill would fix terms at five years instead of the current undischarged terms of the nine members who serve at the pleasure of the governor.

Under the proposal commissioners could be reelected by the governor only for neglect of

Swan Falls Dam plans snarled

BOISE (UPI) — Approval by the current legislature to build a joint venture Swan Falls-Guffey Dam complex dimmed Wednesday night when a special negotiations committee was advised a contract probably could not be reached before Feb. 15.

A member of the Idaho Water Resource Board, a partner in the joint venture with Idaho Power Co. and members of the committee said they thought time would run out before the legislature had a chance to act.

Phillip Peterson, IWRB attorney outlined a progress report for the board and the special negotiations committee, made up of members of the senate and house resources committees, and said the major problem of controversy was inclusion in the contract that profits from the complex be used for building irrigation projects in southwestern Idaho.

The legislation authorizing the committee to enter into negotiations to build the $59 million project, specifically provided that profits from the venture should be used to build water resource projects anywhere in the state.

Edwin Schlender, Malta, board member, said that because of the complexity of the contract it thought "difficult" for the board and the negotiations committee to approve the contract within a week after the Feb. 15 target date.

The legislature has authority to veto any contract approved by the negotiations committee.

Rep. Vard Chatburn, R-Albion, said that if the legislature did not have time to act on any negotiated contract at this session, then legislation would be required to postpone the approval for another year.

Solons abandoning 'financial impact' bill

BOISE (UPI) — The nice thing about being a legislator is that you can always change a law. If it just doesn't work out particularly if the bill applies to legislative procedures.

Such is the problem with the "fiscal note" bill passed in the waning days of the 1971 regular session requiring that a financial impact statement be included in any measure before any action at all can be taken.

Implementation of the bill has caused problems in the 1972 session and both sides of the aisle in both houses have decided to abandon it. As a substitute, the theory behind the bill will be placed in a joint rule.

The theory, according to Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, is that lawmakers voting on the proposal must know the "price tag" the cost of the legislation.

But as written the bill requires that financial statement to be part of the legislation and High, one of the proponents of the measure, intended only that the financial statement be "attached" to each proposal to show costs.

Wednesday the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee approved the draft of a joint rule which provided the fiscal note should include an estimate of costs with a projection of five-year costs.

Some legislators say they plan to oppose the five-year projection. Others indicate it is virtually impossible to estimate the cost of a program.

High, however, sees a real need for a fiscal projection on each bill.

As an example of the necessity, he noted the 38th legislature approved the public employee retirement system only to return in the 39th session to discover the state owed $8 million as its contribution to the program.

"It came as a shock to the universities and everyone else who had to take this out of their budgets," he said.

The advantages of a joint rule rather than a statute are twofold. Legislation will not come into question for lack of a financial note and, as a protection, a two-thirds vote of both houses would be required to change a joint rule.

Meantime, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has proposed eliminating the "double deductibility" aspect of state income tax under study by a joint meeting of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee and the Senate Local Government and Taxation Committee.

Andrus has proposed eliminating the deduction of federal income tax payments from state income for tax purposes. The additional revenue to the state is estimated at $14.6 million.

Figures presented to the committee show, however, the new money would be dropped to $10.6 million.

US sought wartime control

OTTAWA (UPI)—Secret records of Canada's wartime cabinet released Wednesday showed that the United States sought unlimited control over Canadian armed forces in the event of a German attack on North America.

The documents showed that the cabinet of then Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King resisted the U.S. pressure in talks during 1941 before the United States entered the war. Canada finally agreed to a plan for "cooperation" that would have given the United States limited powers over Canadian troops in the event of invasion.

When it was first put forward in April of 1941, the U.S. proposal called for an American strategic direction of Canadian forces in the event the United States joined the war against Germany, whether or not there was an invasion of North America.

However, the Canadian chiefs of staff immediately rejected the idea except in drastic circumstances such as a German occupation of Britain.

and subsequent attack on North America. The cabinet felt even this was too strong, and it decided instead to send a military mission to Washington to "coordinate" plans with the Americans.

The early moves, which began nine months before the United States formally entered World War II, were disclosed in minutes of the cabinet's war committee and accompanying documents.

The documents were the first record kept of Canadian cabinet meetings and the first made public under a decision of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau to release secret papers after 30 years.

The eight looseleaf binders of cabinet minutes, accompanied by an incomplete index and eight folders of supporting papers, were available to newsmen and researchers at the public archives here. Almost every page was stamped "secret" or "top secret."

They also showed that up to the end of 1941, the Canadian Cabinet did not regard Japanese Canadians in British Columbia as a serious security threat, although 24,000 Japanese Canadians were placed in internment camps the following year.

The documents also disclosed that the cabinet was concerned over the extent of U.S. involvement in the defense of Newfoundland, then a British colony which did not become a province of Canada until 1949.

The cabinet feared a postwar U.S. government might use this to make demands for the territory. King said on Dec. 10, 1941, that he planned to take up this question with President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Black Rhodesians back to work after protests

SALISBURY (UPI)—Black Rhodesians returned to work quietly today, picking their way over glass and riot debris, but allaying government fears of a general strike after a night of rampaging violence and looting in the downtown area.

The opposition elements among Rhodesia's five million blacks, led by the newly formed African National Council (ANC), are protesting the November Anglo-Rhodesian settlement proposals which were designed to end 56 years of official hostility between Rhodesia and Britain over Rhodesia's 1965 independence declaration.

Police reported no new flare-up after they sealed off the African township of Harari, the scene Wednesday of exploding tear gas canisters and rushing mobs.

Police said about 20 shops, mostly owned by Asians, skirting the African township, were smashed and several looted.

At Salisbury's Central Hospital 13 persons, including two Roman Catholic nuns, were treated after the rioters smashed their car windshields. A white woman, Mrs. J. P. Cotter, 29, was treated for a fractured skull.

An African farmer at Vunjo south of Salisbury told Commissioner R. E. Blunden: "You have mentioned that this is a package deal. I think that when we open the package we will find a coiled, venomous snake."

Premier Ian Smith's decision Tuesday to delay in two separate jails without trial former Premier Minister Garfield Todd and his daughter, further both declared opponents of the proposals, brought Philip M. Maseko, head of the Rhodesia Development in Britain's Labour and Commonwealth offices in Salisbury, to a public assessment.

Lord Pearce, a white, to head of Salisbury, while his team moved into the interior to speak with Rhodesians, asked Smith for an explanation for the delay.

Under the settlement terms, the British government, the Rhodesian people as a whole, and the proposals before Rhodesia's six white international arbitrators can be ended and normal trade ties resumed.

Chinese goods arrive in US

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—U.S. customs officials said today that goods from Mainland China were arriving in small volumes at West Coast ports, and that the merchandise was of high quality.

"We haven't received any direct shipments, of course, because we still don't have a direct trade agreement," said Bill Lim, U.S. customs assistant district director. "But we have been receiving some indirect shipments from places like Hong Kong and Canada."

Lim said the amount of Chinese goods received was very small compared with U.S. trade agreements with other countries.

Your merchandise is so plentiful that it's hard to gauge what it means, he said.

Customs import specialist George Lau said his division has processed about $1 million in Chinese foodstuffs and herbs since the first shipments trickled in shortly after President Nixon announced his planned visit to the mainland. But these are abnormal conditions, Lau said, especially with the dock strike going on and off, and the agents aren't buying. I think there would be more coming in if things were settled."

Lau, whose division must sample all foodstuff material coming from the mainland, said the principal import item has been cassia, which is used to make cinnamon.

Campaign goes north

By United Press International
Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace plans to take his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination to the North and predicts he will shock both the Democrats and Republicans when he runs in the Pennsylvania primary.

Wallace said he was giving "high consideration" to entering primaries in four other states.

Crowd attacks Belmont firemen

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A crowd of 100 persons hurling bricks and bottles attacked firemen battling a blaze at a boxmaking factory in a Roman Catholic district of Londonderry early today.

Six policemen who rushed to protect firemen at the Belmont Carton Works in Shantallow were injured in the attack. One was hit in the face with a brick and suffered a broken jaw, the police said. One civilian also was injured. A bomb attached to an incendiary device went off just before midnight, the spokesman said. The place was a mass of flames in minutes.

The crowd cut off the firemen's water supply, stoned police cars and a fire engine and forced the firemen to withdraw. The factory, which employed about 400 persons, was destroyed in less than two hours.

Water board outlines 1973 budget proposal

BOISE, UPI — The Idaho Water Resource Board outlined its fiscal year 1973 budget proposal Wednesday, including $1 million for its revolving development fund.

The request to the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee was for $1,683,855 from the general fund compared with the fiscal 1972 appropriation of $482,500. Gov. Cecil D. Andrus in his executive budget address recommended only $484,634 for the board which coupled with federal funds, would give a total budget of $610,934.

The Department of Water Administration outlined a request of $890,516 from the general fund and a total budget of $1,087,116 which included $87,800 from the "water administration fund."

In his executive budget Andrus recommended $834,866 from the general fund and a total budget of $94,466.

The department of finance outlined a $281,959 request from the general fund which, coupled with return from the "credit union examinations fund," would give it a total budget of $306,182.

Andrus recommended $281,959 from the general fund and a total budget of $297,862.

Canyon stadium studies racing

CALDWELL, UPI — Financially hard pressed Canyon Multi-purpose Stadium Complex Inc. is considering a proposal to add horse racing at its facilities.

President R.E. Pasley presented the idea to the stadium's board of directors at a meeting Wednesday.

The stadium board meanwhile voted to accept the proposal of the Caldwell Cubs professional baseball organization now in a state of limbo with the abolition of the team, to have the Cubs sell Simplot Stadium fence advertising and turn part of the revenue over to the stadium.

The Cubs are $10,300 in debt and the stadium organization is $112,000 in debt, with the latter so far able to pay only between $4,000 and $8,000 on its $12,000 bank note due Feb. 1.

Since the stadium was built in 1964 when the Cubs of the Pioneer League came to town, the sponsoring Chicago Cubs have been paying the stadium group $50,000 per year rental for the facilities.

The stadium took this money and paid its obligations, working the debt down to the current $112,000.

Now, however, the Cubs are gone and a crisis confronts the stadium, Pasley said.

Regarding horse racing, Pasley reported that the secretary of the Boise Horse Racing Association, Virgil Bond, has inspected the Caldwell stadium and is enthused about racing there.

Air photos have been taken of the grounds and are under the scrutiny of a track construction firm in Arizona. A decision will probably be ready by late February, he said.

Pasley assured athletic directors Don Parnell of the College of Idaho and Jim Guy of Caldwell High School that the stadium's main consideration will continue to be providing suitable facilities in fields for C and CHS athletic events.

Bond has received an opinion from the U.S. Supreme Court that parimutuel betting is not gambling.

Thus, the stadium will not violate its agreement, with the College of Idaho not to permit gambling in the stadium, which was formerly owned by the college and donated to the stadium organization.

Basques sought in kidnap case

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (UPI) — Thousands of heavily armed police today manned roadblocks and searched the Basque Mountains for four left-wing extremists who carried out one of the strangest kidnappings in Spanish history.

The men police hunted were members of "Basque Homeland and Liberty" (ETA), an underground organization which wants to create a Basque Communist nation from chunks of Spain and France. It has a long record of violence.

The man they abducted Wednesday was wealthy industrialist Lorenzo Zabala, 44, owner of a motorcycle factory and a member of the board of several companies.

The ransom they asked was reinstatement of 113 workers dismissed by one of Zabala's companies and a $15-a-week pay raise for each of them.

If the workers have not returned to their jobs and our demands are not met by 8 a.m. Monday, Jan. 24, Senor Zabala will be executed," the kidnappers said in a letter to Spanish news media in which they also claimed responsibility for recent bank holdups and bombings.

The search produced a first result Wednesday night when the getaway car of the kidnappers was found abandoned in a Bilbao street. It had been stolen one day before, the abduction.

Zabala, a father of four, was kidnapped as he arrived at the gates of his company, Motobici S.A., in the small town of Abadiano in the Basque Mountains south of Bilbao.

Gem solons ask Snake moratorium

BOISE, UPI — The Senate Resources and Environment Committee agreed today to introduce a memorial to Congress supporting a seven-year moratorium on the Snake River and opposing the Hells Canyon-Snake National River proposal.

The memorial noted the Hells Canyon-Snake National River Proposal backed by Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., would require a minimum flow that would preclude future upstream development for consumptive use thus reducing further water supplies for all purposes and foreclosing Idaho's option to reclaim new lands that are available in quality and quantity along the Snake River.

The memorial noted the proposed moratorium on dam construction has twice passed the U.S. Senate.

Richfield celebrates redemption

RICHFIELD — Special ceremonies will mark the Richfield Parent-Teacher meeting at 8 p.m. today at the high school. The occasion will be to celebrate redemption of bonds over the past 20 years for Richfield High School. Supt. Neil Andreason will be in charge of the ceremony. The public is invited.

Plans for building an electrical scoreboard for the high school football field will be reviewed by Richard Sparks, a high school faculty member.

A playlet will be presented by the Speech 11 class of V.C. Ross. The program is under the direction of Mrs. Max Behr and Mrs. Frances Friestad, elementary teachers.

Many dialects

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chinese still have a language problem, with marked differences in dialect from region to region.

The official language, Mandarin is spoken by more than 400 million persons except on the southern coast, says Encyclopedia Britannica.

But in a belt stretching from Shanghai to Canton there are approximately eight mutually unintelligible dialects. Of these, Wu is spoken by 45 million, Min by 10 million, Amoy-Swato by 15 million, Kwangtung by 20 million and Cantonese by at least 35 million.

Crop insurance role explained

TWIN FALLS — All-risk crop insurance can insure the farmer against the loss of his crop investment, according to D. H. Bertoch, director of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

Federal Crop Insurance is a type not available from private insurance companies, he said. All-risk insurance covers unavoidable losses due to any natural or man-made conditions, including drought, excessive rain, hail, wind, hurricane, tornado, frost, freeze, winterkill, snow and lightning.

It also covers unavoidable losses due to insect infestation, plant disease, flood, wildlife, fire and earthquake. These risks are beyond the grower's control, Bertoch said.

None of the corporation's insurance covers loss due to such causes as neglect, poor farming practices and theft. The insurance covers only loss in production due to unavoidable cause, not losses due to low prices for the farm products.

FCIC administrative managers and fieldman for the southern Idaho-North Utah area have been in Twin Falls for a three-day training symposium. They are training in better methods of communication with the farmer.

Bertoch told the Times-News the federal crop insurance program was originally set up under the Federal Crop Insurance Act of 1938. It set up the corporation under the U. S. Department of Agriculture to help wheat farmers. By the law, the corporation started in 140 counties and was allowed to expand at the rate of 100 counties a year. In the last year the lid has been removed and insurance is offered in an unlimited number of counties where the crops are large enough to warrant insurance.

The FCIC covers almost all crops grown in the Magic Valley area except potatoes. Bertoch said the FCIC did have a potato program at one time but payments of losses were too great to give it stabilization, so the USDA canceled it. Bertoch said he hopes it may be reinstated.

The employees of the program are employed by the USDA. Administrative managers are full-time personnel while field men work only part of the year.

Their salaries are paid from legislative appropriations and not from premium payments. Bertoch said premiums paid by the farmer go to pay claims and build up reserve funds.

Bertoch leads symposium

Workshops slated

MOSCOW — Workshops for agricultural cooperative directors and managers, sponsored by five cooperative organizations, are planned at Pullman, Wash. Jan. 25-27 and at Caldwell, Feb. 1-3.

The sponsoring organizations are the cooperative extension services of the University of Idaho and Washington State University, the cooperative councils of Idaho and Washington, and the Spokane Bank for Cooperatives.

Representatives from these organizations helped plan and will participate in the workshop program.

According to Dr. Robert L.

Sargent, extension agricultural economist, University of Idaho, programs during the first two days will be on management and on the role of the board of directors of cooperatives. The sessions are designed to improve overall understanding of the functions of the board members and of managers in the operation of a cooperative.

The third day of each of the workshops is designed to give a concentrated view of cooperative finance. Annual statements, financial ratios, financial leverage and debt and equity are among the topics that will be discussed.

Potato promotion vote explanations planned

TWIN FALLS — Two meetings at which the potato industry referendum are scheduled Friday in the Magic Valley.

The first will be at 1:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn, Twin Falls. The second will be at 7:30 p.m. at the Ponderosa Inn, Burley. Both are being arranged by the Potato Growers of Idaho to explain the referendum for potato market and product research funds.

According to Tom McClain, Buhl, district promotion chairman for the PGA, the referendum is being coordinated by the National Potato Council.

He said the program began five years ago when the potato industry became alarmed over the continual drop in per capita consumption of potatoes and loss of market to rice and pasta products.

The National Potato Council started a promotion program voluntarily, then decided to approach Congress for legislation that would allow the potato industry through referendum procedures to set up a program providing funding for market research, new product research, foreign market research and promotion programs for potatoes.

McClain said after five years of work, the law has passed, the plan has been written and the refendum is scheduled for Feb. 1-10.

It is essential at this point, and a responsibility of the National Potato Council as well as other grower groups to inform as completely as possible all growers on the program, McClain said.

He said it must be explained why the program is needed, how each state will be represented on the promotion board and how the program will work. McClain said the discussions are planned to help the grower have a better understanding of the situation when he votes.

On hand to answer any questions will be Doyle Burns, executive director, and Merle Anderson, vice president of the National Potato Council.

Coverup

NEW YORK (UPI) — Long jackets and tunics are great for wearing with pants to the office, says Jack Winter, the pants maker who first went overboard in making pantsuits for women some years ago. "They hide a multitude of figure sins — big hips and bottoms, heavy thighs," Winter says.

Housing program rules broadened

BOISE (UPI) — Changes in eligibility requirements have made the Farmers Home Administration's rural housing program available to a greatly increased number of Idaho residents.

Donald J. Winder, state FHA director, said major changes included raising the maximum adjusted income of applicants from $8,500 to $9,000 annually, along with authority to make housing loans in cities of 10,000 or less population and the rural open areas.

Prior to the change, Winder said, the FHA could finance housing construction only in cities of 5,500 population or less and in the open rural areas of the state.

He said with the new changes the FHA could finance in every community of Idaho except for the nine major population centers.

He said the upward adjustment of the income figure added another 4,500 families in Idaho that can now qualify for FHA assistance in financing the building or purchase of adequate housing.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks were slightly higher as trading rounded the mid-point Thursday.

A steady flow of constructive news, including President Nixon's State of the Union message, generally helped the market give a good account of itself in view of the belief among many Wall Street analysts that the market is well overvalued and due for a pullback, or some type of consolidation.

Nixon, reiterating that 1972 will be a "very good year," conceded that inflation was a more difficult problem than he originally expected, but he predicted it would be brought under control this year.

The President acknowledged that unemployment remained high, but vowed to reduce it from the 6 per cent recession level of last year. "Our goal is full employment in peacetime—and we intend to meet that goal," Nixon said.

Near 1:15 p.m., the Dow Jones industrial average showed a gain of around 1½ points at 916.47. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index rose 0.56 at 104.44, and advanced led declines, 835 to 500, among the 1,683 issues crossing the tape.

IBM, delayed at the opening by an influx of trading orders, spurred more than 10 points. IBM recently reported higher earnings and sales for the fourth quarter and year.

Control Data, Corning Glass, Eastman Kodak, and Superior Oil gained a point or better. Bausch & Lomb, however, fell 2½ after soaring 13 points Wednesday.

Mandatory officer training urged

Spokesmen for Idaho's police chiefs and sheriff's urged the legislature Wednesday to make training of peace officers mandatory and to set up an interim study of local law enforcement.

Police Chief Buster Baker of Nampa, principal spokesman for the Idaho Association of Police Chiefs, told the House Judiciary Committee he believes most local law enforcement officers want help from the state level. "I think they're looking for someone to lend an ear and they're not finding it at the local level," Baker said. He, Police Chief Charles Astleford of Caldwell and Sheriff Don Bekow of Gem County presented the proposals to the committee.

First, they asked the committee to recommend establishing by law a police officers' standards and training commission. They said the present agency functioning in this field is a committee of the Law Enforcement Planning Commission and added that plan is not working to their satisfaction.

Then they asked the committee to study proposed legislation establishing a law enforcement foundation through which local monies for law enforcement can be supplemented with state and federal aid in salaries.

Baker said he doubted, because of the high cost, that such a foundation could be set up this year. But he asked it be included in an interim study.

Acting Committee Chairman Terry Crapp, R-Idaho Falls, appointed Reps. Don Brennann D-Pocahontas and Earl Greenwalt, R-Jerome, as a subcommittee to look into the proposed legislation and check it out with the Legislative Council and report back recommendations for introduction.

As proposed by the police chiefs and sheriff's, the commission would be composed of eight members, including the public instruction superintendent of his designee, the state police superintendent, the director of the Law Enforcement Planning Commission or his designee, two sheriffs chosen by their association and three police chiefs chosen by their association.

Baker said the present planning commission is too large and "unruly" in its functions. He said some members have no interest in its activities.

"We can make no decisions as such," he added. "Sometimes our requests are not carried out."

Under the proposal, a special standards and training commission could require all peace officers hired on or after July 1 to undergo minimum instruction at a training academy unless they are appointed only for a temporary or probationary position.

1971 tobacco sales up despite demise of TV ads

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI)—The tobacco industry executive is almost as calm today as the Marlboro man used to be on television, settling back for a smoke after a hard day in the saddle.

One year ago this month, the industry appeared in a virtual panic because the Marlboro man and his suave relatives from other cigarette firms were ruled off television.

Anti-smoking advertisements had been almost as frequent as cigarette commercials on the networks, and tobacco companies were searching far and wide for other business ventures, fearing the worst. In North Carolina, tobacco farmers were being urged strongly to diversify, or to stop growing leaf altogether for fear the market would dry up.

What happened instead was that even without television advertising, cigarette sales jumped by a healthy margin, estimated from 2.3 per cent to 4 per cent and 1971 turned out to be the best year on record for tobacco farmers.

"When you can come up with an increase of about 4 per cent in sales, you've had a good year," said Bill Anderson, an official of the Tobacco Growers Information Committee.

The most widely respected source for cigarette statistics in or out of the industry is John C. Maxwell, an analyst for the Wall Street brokerage house of Oppenheimer and Co.

Maxwell estimates 1971 sales at $38.3 billion cigarettes, an increase of 2.3 per cent from 1970 sales of $37.4 billion and one of the largest increases since the U.S. surgeon-general's famous 1964 report on smoking and health. There was a very small increase in cigarette sales in 1969, and a jump by 1.5 per cent in 1970.

Maxwell sees part of the reason for the increase in sales in the growth of the age group 20 to 40, which has the highest consumption record, and part as a backfiring of the anti-smoking drive.

The rest of this growth we must relate to government overkill, wherein many voices of Washington suggest that everything we eat or drink is harmful," said Maxwell.

There still are fears in the industry that the government eventually might make it unprofitable to make cigarettes, or to advertise them, but industry leaders are breathing a bit easier.

"We have found out, to our delight, that we can get along without television," said John Southard, vice president for marketing for Liggett & Myers. The anti-smoking drive in past years has moved all the major tobacco companies into diversification, with Reynolds now offering Chun King Oriental dinners, Hawaiian Punch, aluminum products, and a 1970 addition of American Independent Oil Co., as well as a containerized shipping service. American Brands Inc. in 1970 purchased Acme Visible Records Inc., Swingline Sta-plers, the Andrew Jergens Co., Master Lock Co., and also owns the James Beam Distilling Co. and Sunshine Biscuits Co. P. Lorillard Corp. in 1968 became a subsidiary of Loew's Theaters Inc., which operates theater and hotel chains. In each case, tobacco is still the biggest business.

Worm warning

CHICAGO (UPI)—Farmers—and ladies—ought to know that the Food and Drug Administration cautions on use of electrical probes used to force worms from the ground. The probes, connected to two wires of an extension cord, have caused two deaths and may be responsible for eight other electrocutions. The federal agency estimates 30,000 probes have been sold and even more dangerous home-made ones are in use, says the National Safety Council.

Safeway Pledges Continued Support Of Our Nation's Fight Against Inflation

Safeway would expect from a company which has devoted its life to keeping food costs down. Safeway will give full support to Phase II of the President's Economic Stabilization Program. We are in the process of making available in our stores lists of our base prices for non-perishable food products. These were our selling prices during the freeze period of the President's program. From these lists you will learn that many of our prices are below our base prices. This will continue to be true under Phase II controls. Prices we pay for foods we sell are always subject to changes resulting from such things as crop conditions and seasonal demand. Thus you will find that some prices will go up others will go down while many will remain unchanged. Control regulations provide for adjustments over base prices where necessary. In working under these regulations you can be sure that Safeway will rate prices only when absolutely necessary. And we will promptly reduce prices when possible. In Phase II of the freeze period you can be sure that Safeway will do its part to help put the brakes on inflation.

Installation set by TF YM-YWCA

TWIN FALLS — Mary Russell will be installed president of the YWCA and Richard Shotwell as president of the YMCA during the two groups' annual meeting Jan. 26. The dinner meeting will start at 7 p.m. at the Y, 1751 Elizabeth Blvd., according to outgoing presidents Mrs. Nedra Gentry and Leon Smith. The two announced that Anthony Park, Idaho attorney general, is scheduled to speak and bring the two organizations up to date on youth problems in the state.

A highlight of the meeting will be the awarding of the Evangeline White Service Award to a person who has significantly contributed to the development and growth of the Y. The award is named in honor of the late Mrs. White whose contribution made the present Y facilities possible. The Madrigal Singers of Twin Falls High School will present special music for the program. Those who plan to attend the dinner are asked to make reservations by calling the Y office.

Jay-C-Ettes fete past presidents

TWIN FALLS — The annual Twin Falls Jay-C-Ettes Rose Banquet honoring past presidents and past key women was held Tuesday at the Turf Club.

Past presidents attending were Carol Serpa, Lois Lennan, Betty Zuck, Marya Duncan, JoAnn Wolfe, Charlene Vollmer and Colleen Utley. They each gave a brief resume of their year in office.

Sandy Becker, president, presided at the dinner and business meeting, at which future projects were discussed, such as the March of Dimes March, the Jay-Cee Prayer Breakfast, Saturday at 6 a.m., Y-Outreach and the children's project.

A social work party will be held Tuesday to give Jay-Cee wives a chance to get acquainted and complete some pictures.

Lodge oracle named

HANSEN — Mrs. Lewis Reed was elected oracle of the Royal Neighbor Lodge at a meeting this week at the Woodman Hall, with Mrs. Elsie Henry as vice oracle.

Mrs. Cloe Weech is past oracle. Mrs. Wayne Smith, chancellor; Mrs. Mary Taylor, recorder; Mrs. John Brown, receiver; Mrs. Earl Tridle, marshal; Mrs. W. I. McFarland, assistant marshal; Mrs. Leo Roberts, inner sentinel; Mrs. Jessie Calico, outer sentinel; Mrs. Minned Bedow, and Lena Rohm, new board member.

Dr. Humphries was named as the lodge physician. Graces will be appointed.

Mrs. Ethyl McDonald, Mrs. Minnie Bedow and Mrs. Betty Pollard were officers pro tem at the meeting, with Mrs. Elsie Henry presiding.

The semi-annual audit, given by Mrs. Mary Taylor, was read and accepted. Mrs. William Ruce, Filer, was the special auditor.

It was decided to have a series of 10 card parties co-sponsored with the Modern Woodmen Lodge members.

Mrs. Madge Panting and Mrs. Jessie Calico were hostesses. The Jan. 25 meeting will be installation of officers. Mrs. Reed and Mrs. Henry will be hostesses.

Mini-Concert set Sunday by club

TWIN FALLS — The January meeting of the Twin Falls Music Club will feature a Mini-Concert performed by the Northwesterners of Northwest Nazarene College, Nampa.

The concert, which is open to the public, will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 23, at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts building. It is sponsored jointly by the Idaho Federation of Music Club, the Twin Falls Music Club, an affiliate of the National Federation of Music Clubs, and the Idaho Commission for Arts and Humanities.

The Northwesterners ensemble was first organized by the director, Dr. D. E. Hill, in 1957 for the purpose of performing a variety music, ranging from early vocal repertoire to modern-day compositions.

In addition to campus, community and northwest-area appearances, the Northwesterners have twice been selected by the Overseas Touring Committee of the National Music Council and approved by the USO and United States Department of Defense for overseas tours of military installations.

NEW MARINER-9 photo of Mars released Wednesday by Jet Propulsion laboratory shows a vast chasm with branching canyons eroding the plateaus in an area 300 miles south of the Mars equator. These features represent a type of landform evolution apparently unique to Mars. Subsidence along lines of weakness in the crust, and possibly deflation by Martian winds, have sculptured this unique pattern. Picture was made from 1,225 miles, and covers an area 235 by 300 miles. Air Force court hears case about airman who refused to get haircut SAIGON (UPI) — An Air Force court Wednesday heard the case of a young airman who is charged with refusing orders to get a haircut.

Airman 1st class Ned Posey, 22, of Lead, S.D., who has been fined, reduced in rank and forced to live on cold rations, wore his brown locks curling unmanly around his ears and neck as he entered the final round of his five-month fight to keep them.

The civilian defense attorney with even longer blond hair, Edward Kopanski, 28, told the judge it was time for the Air Force to adapt the hair styles of the younger generation.

"People today wear their hair in many different ways," Kopanski, dressed in blue jeans and sandals, told the Col. Edward Kohler. "The court must not interfere with any of their jobs. What is this overwhelming tendency on the part of the military to make individuals conform?"

Kohler, whose few gray hairs did a poor job of covering his balding head, silently jotted down notes while Kopanski accused the Air Force of a complete disregard for the rights of Posey. The pre-trial hearing was recessed until Thursday.

Posey, a radar repairman at the Cam Ranh Bay Air Base, faces a maximum sentence of six months in jail and a bad conduct discharge if found guilty.

Posey's commanding officer, Maj. Donald Easterwood, planned that Posey's rebellion made it tough to get other GIs to cut their hair.

Easterwood tried reprimanding Posey, fining him $50 and finally "busting him" from sergeant to airman 1st class.

Everybody looked up to him and they thought he was doing the right thing, he said. He admitted, however, Posey "did a pretty good job" despite the long hair.

Posey stopped cutting his hair last August when Col. Rodney Newbold, commander of the 19th Tactical Air Wing, barred all servicemen with long hair from mess halls, clubs, buses and taxis at the Cam Ranh Bay Air Base.

Ketchum gets 2 weekly newspapers

Editor Yancey

BY TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — Two new weekly newspapers appeared here this week.

They are "Ketchum Tomorrow" and the "Sawtooth Mountaineer." In addition, the third issue of the bi-weekly "Sun Valley Sun" was distributed on Monday.

Rick Yancey, publisher of "Ketchum Tomorrow," said the paper is an "advertising gazette," serving the "entire Wood River Basin." It will also contain local news and editorial material, he said.

The tabloid will be distributed free to all county box holders and to rural and star route customers. Copies will also be available in area shopping centers.

Yancey said the paper will include environmental articles and an environment forum, which "anyone who wants to offer a view will be published."

But he said the paper "is not an environmentalist newspaper." One page will be devoted to entertainment, Yancey said.

Yancey, who lives in Bellevue, said he is a life-long resident of Idaho and learned printing skills in the U. S. Navy.

"Ketchum Tomorrow" is published by Galena Publishing Co., Inc., Ketchum. The company's incorporation papers, filed Monday in Boise, list as incorporators Yancey, Neal R. Nyblad, Hailey, and Richard B. Meyer, Ketchum.

The "Sawtooth Mountaineer" published a preview issue Monday. Editor Nancy Bedingfield said the paper will be printed on a weekly schedule "as soon as technically possible."

Miss Bedingfield said, "The area needs a weekly that covers and interprets meetings and activities of local governmental groups."

The new paper is a sister publication to the "Sawtooth Mountain Star" and incorporates the same staff members. The original newspaper, with 10,000 circulation, was established 10 years ago.

The "Star" primarily a recreation guide is published nine times a year. Miss Bedingfield said.

"Sawtooth Mountaineer" will feature columns by Jack Hemingway, astrologer Johnny Lister and "book reviews" by Mollee Hecht. Staff members include assistant editor Kay Bittick, art director Marilyn Frazier and office manager Kathy Perron.

The press run for the preview issue numbered 4,000 and copies were delivered free in the Ketchum-Sun Valley area. Miss Bedingfield said the free delivery will be extended to Hailey, Bellevue and Stanley Post Office box holders.

The "Sun Valley Sun" is a revised and remodeled version of an earlier Sun Valley publication — distributed its third issue Monday.

Newspaper spokesmen said that the paper features primarily news of the Sun Valley area and includes movie reviews and coming events. A special column is written by Dorice Taylor.

Staff members are publisher William Janss, editor Ruth Lieder, art director Sue Jacobsen, news bureau photographer Steve Marks, news bureau manager Pat Thornton, and Production manager Bill Rousey. Rod Tatsune and Ralph Harris, both valley ski instructors, also contribute original art.

The bi-weekly tabloid, which has a circulation of about 8,000, is distributed free at information and lobby counters in Sun Valley.

A previous Sun Valley newspaper, the "Valley Sun," began publication in January, 1947 and suspended publication midwinter, 1971.

Blaine approves plan for new jail

HAILEY — Final plans for the new $238,000 Blaine County jail were approved during a special meeting of the county commissioners Wednesday.

A bid opening was scheduled for 2 p.m. Feb. 16. The commissioners said that the jail will be divided into two separate buildings, jail equipment and general contract.

The announcement came after a meeting to discuss heating provisions for the jail with Merlin Alderson, representing the architectural firm of Sudenberg and Associates, Idaho Falls, and Charles Sudweeks of Engineering Inc., Pocatello, mechanical and electrical engineers on the project.

Sudweeks said that the jail would be split into seven zones each heated by a residential furnace. He said replacement parts are readily available in the area and that one furnace could be shut off if a particular cell area was not in use. The furnaces would be about one-half the price of a central heating system, he said.

The group decided to have contractors bid on condenser units to convert to air conditioning as an alternate but the commissioners also decided that the structure be heated by gas instead of by electricity. Sudweeks said that initial costs for heating equipment would be the same, but gas would cost about $800 a year, while electricity would cost about $1600.

Alderson said that the basic masonry construction of the jail, because it can't be well insulated, lends itself better to gas heating.

Commissioner Jack Bennett said that construction will start after the snow and frost melts. The contractor will then have 100 working days to complete the jail which will be constructed south of the present courthouse. Cost to the county for the facility is $65,000. The remainder will be covered by state and federal grants.

GERMAN SHEPHERD guide dog left at the bus depot in Twin Falls last Friday night bids goodbye to his temporary master, Harlan Shearer, 16, Twin Falls, before being placed in the city animal shelter Wednesday. TF community improvement unit plans incorporation

TWIN FALLS — Articles of incorporation were reviewed Wednesday night by the Twin Falls Community Improvement Association with final action to incorporate the voluntary group expected by the March meeting.

Gary Krefl, chairman, said the organization will meet again Feb. 3 to review the final draft of the articles presented in preliminary form by a representative of Western Idaho Legal Aid Society.

Krefl said about 55 persons attended the Wednesday night meeting with Michael P. Gray representing the City Council and office of City Clerk Andrea

The organization aims to provide adequate housing in the community for low and moderate income families.

Krefl said Les Brown of the Twin Falls Housing Authority also attended the meeting and advised the group to go ahead with surveys to obtain figures on housing needs.

If statistics about families in the community and their specific needs are available, beyond what statewide census figures show, some program to meet these needs would be more probable, he said.

Brown also advised the group to work to educate the community as well as the families in need of housing.

Krefl said persons in need of housing, such as senior citizens, low income families and individuals, must be educated as to how to obtain assistance and if provided housing, must be educated as to their responsibilities in upkeep of the housing.

Contract on Perrine Bridge set

BOISE — State Highway Engineer Ellis Mathes said Wednesday the contract for the proposed $4.4 million Perrine Memorial Bridge replacement will be let in August or early September.

Mathes told the joint transportation committee architectural plans are presently on the drawing board and are expected to be done by July.

He said federal funds totaling $6.1 million had been appropriated for the four-lane span and the state had to come up with the balance of $2.1 million in matching funds.

TF County mulls soil survey use

TWIN FALLS — Use of soil surveys in planning use and development of lands in Twin Falls County was discussed by officials of the Soil Conservation Service Wednesday night in a meeting of the county's Land Use Committee.

Don Kramer, chairman, introduced Tom Pierce, soil correlator and Darrell Gallup, soil scientist, who reviewed soil survey programs in the state and explained how soil resources figure into the overall county planning program.

Pierce explained the capability of the soil to produce agricultural products or to provide a basis for housing development is the key factor in development and planning.

Studies are currently underway in Cassia County, the two said, and partial soil survey information has been collected through the SCS staff for Twin Falls County. County commissioners and Planning and Zoning Commission members also attended the meeting.

Clarence Hedrick, conservationist, SCS office in Twin Falls, said the Wednesday night meeting was an informational session and it will now be up to the commissioners and Land Use Committee members to decide if such a survey should be made here and information utilized through other development and planning authorities.

One task is to get a land use map to go someplace with you.

Jerome protest filed

JEROME — Backers of the movement to recall three Jerome City Councilmen Wednesday protested the city clerk's refusal to accept recall petitions filed against office councilman.

The letter was signed by S. A. Kolman and three other supporters of former city police chief C. H. Puntney who had been ousted by the three councilmen in an action which sparked the recall attempt.

The letter protested City Clerk Mrs. Bruce Bragg's refusal to accept the petitions against Councilman S. N. Shorty, Weeks.

The letter claimed that the clerk had no legal right to refuse the petition. The clerk had refused on grounds that statutes prevent recall within three months after official election.

A thought for the day — Irish poet James Stephens said — "Women are wiser than men because they know less and understand more."

2 TF men returned

TWIN FALLS — James A. Sinclair and Dr. Dean H. Affleck have been re-elected as directors of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Twin Falls, it was announced at the annual depositors' meeting Wednesday.

Rick Allen, Twin Falls, was promoted to vice-president, loan department, and Gary Lee, Burley, was promoted to vice-president, Burley Branch loan department.

Sinclair said the association will loan over $10 million and will pay depositors interest of $2,800,000.

Road projects hinge on taxes

BOISE — State Highway Engineer Ellis Mathes told a group of legislators Wednesday there would be no construction of primary secondary or urban area roads during the coming fiscal year unless they approved an increase in the gas tax.

Mathes told the joint transportation committee he thought the highway board of directors would use all the funds anticipated from the present seven cent tax to finance the Perrine Memorial Bridge replacement and for work on the interstate highway system in the state.

"It would darn near wipe out primary, secondary and urban area roads," Mathes told the legislators.

He said a one penny increase in the motor fuel tax would add $4.1 million to state revenues, with $3.1 million going to the highway department after a redistribution of funds was made.

An increase in driver's license fees of $5 across the board would net an additional $2.5 million, with the highway department's share coming to $1.7 million.

Mathes told the committee members revenues from a one cent tax increase would go toward construction of primary, secondary and urban area roads. "If it's only a penny," he said, "it would have to be for state use and this means the highway department. It wouldn't help the counties or highway districts one bit."

Cassia traffic program urged

BOISE — Ellis Mathes, state highway engineer, Wednesday outlined a four-part program to help reduce accidents on a stretch of Interstate 80N south of Burley.

Mathes, appearing before the joint transportation committee, acknowledged we have a problem there, but it's not much different from several other areas in the state.

Traffic accidents in recent weeks on the stretch of the road approximately 40 miles south of Burley have claimed several lives. Truck drivers have circulated petitions to the highway department calling for tougher safety measures.

Mathes said, "We might need to limit the speed limit, especially for truckers, on that part of the road and also said existing highway signs would be augmented by flashing lights. "But sometimes people don't read signs too well," he said.

The highway engineer also said highway crews would double the amount of sand following storms and that the department had requested funds for the coming fiscal year to build a highway maintenance station at the Malta interchange.

Camas gets school aid

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Camas County School district is one of three in Idaho which will share $42,448 in Title I school funds allocated for federally affected areas.

Come Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, said he has been advised by the Office of Education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, that Camas' County School District 121, Fairfield, will receive $5,533.50.

Hailey council to lease wheel loader

HAILEY — The Hailey City Council contracted to lease a $23,521 wheel loader on a lease-option program during a special meeting Wednesday night.

Payments on the machine, scheduled to begin March 15, will be about $550 a month. Interest payments were set at 6 per cent annually.

City Attorney Stephen Boller said the city will lease the tractor for two years with an option to purchase after that time. Should the city decide to buy the equipment, all lease payments will be credited toward the payment and the city would have two more years to pay for the machine.

Purchase was made from Western Equipment Company, Boise.

In brief action, the council authorized the adoption of tentative water and sewer rates until full adoption is made of a comprehensive ordinance governing water and sewer rates and policies.

Boller said he met Wednesday with the city accountant, Bob Jackson; Charles Dunn, acting mayor, and City Council commissioner of the system, and Harold Cox, representing J. U. B. engineers — the consulting engineers on the new Hailey water and sewer system.

Monthly rates were calculated to bring in enough revenue to cover yearly maintenance, operation and bond principle payments, Boller said. The group determined that costs on the system will be about $102,000 a year.

The monthly combined sewer and water rate was set at $13.50 for one equivalent connection — a single family residence. The rate for sewer users only was established at $8 a month for one equivalent connection. Water users alone will be charged $7 a month, the same as at present.

Boller said that the rate structure would produce enough revenue to cover the costs, except for the first year of operation. Hailey residents must hook into the new system by September first, he said.

Cox said that after one year of operation, sewer and water rates may be adjusted.

Acting Mayor Charles Dunn asked whether the rates could be reduced for one person household. The council considered charging a 75 per cent rate for one equivalent connection, but the matter was tabled for further discussion.

Cox said that Sumner Johnson of J. U. B. engineers have prepared an ordinance setting sewer policies. The council decided to conduct a special meeting with Johnson, prior to the next City Council meeting, to discuss policies.

Boller said that he will combine the sewer and water ordinances and present a complete ordinance to the council next month.

In other action, the council, passed an interim appropriation ordinance, allocating $15,000 for city expenses and salary until the 1972 budget is adopted. The city has until March 31 to complete the budget.

— Heard Police Chief Roy Evans report the city will hire a patrolman. Applications, in the form of a resume, must be submitted by Feb. 7.

Olympic contestant

DENVER — Two Idaho women skiers, including Susan Corrock, 20, Sun Valley, will be representing the United States in the 1972 Olympics in Sapporo, Japan.

Miss Corrock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Corrock, has been skiing for the U. S. 1972 Ski Team in Europe and the United States and was one of six women and eight men announced as members of the Olympic Alpine Team yesterday by the U. S. Ski Association.

Another woman skier, well known in the intermountain area who will compete on the Olympic team is Karen Budge, 22, Jackson, Wyo.

U. S. Alpine Program Director Willie Schaeffler, Denver, announced the selection from Grindelwald, Switzerland, where United States Alpine skiers are currently racing.

The other Idahoan is Patty Boydston, 20, McCall.

Popular pop

DETROIT (UPI) — Soft drinks during 1971 dislodged coffee as the most popular beverage in Michigan — outside of water — as pop consumption per person hit 36.1 gallons a year, compared with 34.6 for coffee.

'70 census report given for Cassia

BURLEY — According to the United States Department of Commerce census report there were 4,448 homes in Cassia County with TV in 1970.

The census counted 5,371 housing units in Cassia County and 4,448 households had at least one television set, 1,556 UHF-equipped, according to the report. The figures are from the first report for Idaho which presents detailed statistics on housing for each county.

The report shows that in the county there were 533 housing units with air conditioning, 259 with room units and 274 with a central system, 3,920 units with clothes washing machines, 2,767

Booklet gives advice on taxes

JEROME — A booklet that gives information on how to fill out federal tax returns will be sold at the post office, Jerome, according to Postmaster Dale Vining.

"Your Federal Income Tax" was written by the Internal Revenue Service and contains many examples to illustrate how the tax law applies to actual situations.

A special feature of the booklet is the sample, filled-in return, Form 1040, keyed to pages where explanations can be found for each entry on the return.

The 100-page booklet is on sale now for 75 cents a copy.

"By selling this booklet at the post office in Jerome, we are offering a convenient service to our customers," Vining said.

The Jerome Post Office is participating in a national program to make the tax booklet available to the public.

Another popular IRS publication, "Tax Guide for Small Business" will also be available at the Jerome Post Office, Vining said.

This publication answers many questions businessmen have about federal income, excise and employment taxes and also contains a 1972 tax calendar with due dates for various tax and information returns and payments.

Vining said.

Hagerman bank gives school aid

HAGERMAN — Norman Hansen, manager of the Hagerman branch of the Idaho State Bank, announced today that $5,500 has been made to Idaho schools in the areas served by the bank, recently.

According to Mr. Hansen seven schools have received amounts from $500 to $1,000 to be used as needed in the schools.

Schools receiving $500 were Bliss, Fairfield and Grand View with $1,000 going to Cambridge, Hagerman, Glens Ferry and

Clinic set in GF

GLENN'S FERRY — A Rubella clinic will be held in Glens Ferry at 9 a.m. Friday according to Central District Health Department officials.

Mrs. Iris Taylor, director of the physical health division for the district, said the free vaccinations will be available to children at least one year of age and older at the Glens Ferry Elementary School lunchroom.

She said the vaccinations provide immunity for life.

Introducing the crispiest onion rings ever made.

Ore-Ida's new French Fried Crisp Onion Rings are very different from ordinary frozen onion rings. They're really crisp. Never soggy. They have a thinner coating of batter that doesn't fall off. It's crisp, through-out, even baking, to an extra crunchy crispness. And less batter means more sweet onion, more true onion flavor. And since our new onion rings don't fall apart, we don't have to hide them in a box, we can show them off in our new see-through bag.

Try them. They won't disappoint you.

G.F. faces 2 big loop tests; T.F. meets Pocatello, Burley

Glenns Ferry faces a last chance and a big chance on two conference games. Twin Falls brings its team back home and the Magic Valley Conference chase will be changed when Castleford travels to Hagerman.

Those games should feature a brief mid-season weekend schedule of 19 games, which will be the smallest through the end of the season as the teams reload for the final half of the conference schedule.

Glenns Ferry's "last chance" in the Big Six Conference comes at Gooding where the Senators have breeched through 11 straight wins and haven't lost since the second round of the district tournament last year. Glenns Ferry gave Gooding some second-half problems in their pre-Christmas meeting but the Senators had moved too far ahead over the first two quarters.

Saturday night Glenns Ferry comes to Kimberly with a chance of about wrapping up the Little Five Conference title. Kimberly appears to be the most serious challenger to the Pilots, who won the first meeting and would go two-up with a Saturday win.

Twin Falls comes home after three away games in which Coach Don Haynes felt his Bruins played their best two games and one that wasn't so fancy. The Bruins will entertain the ever dangerous Pocatello Indians Friday night then travel to tall Burley Saturday.

Pocatello did not have its potentially best player last weekend in bowing by one to Minico and four to Skyline, both unbeaten in the SIC. Gene Sanders may be back for the both in scoring and rebounding, in Les Levels and Sanders. The Bruins know what to expect at Burley since the Bobcats initiated them 78-55 in the opener this year. If history repeats, Twin Falls should score well because it is traditional that these two clubs feel less foreign court disadvantage, probably because the gymnasiums are almost identical. This series has been a high scoring one since the early 1960s—excluding the interruption of regular season play for four seasons.

A possible undefeated conference showdown between Castleford and Hagerman snapped Tuesday when Deco upset the Pirates. That put a new complexion on Friday's meeting. Castleford could open up a two-game lead over the Pirates who, conversely, now must win or fall behind two games, which makes it harder to catch up.

"I think it depends on our shooting," says Castleford Coach Bud Watkins. "We can play pretty good defense but Hagerman just shoots the ball too well most of the time to win without a strong offense."

In other action, The Wendell Trojans will travel to Wood River while Filer will be at Shoshone in a pair of Big Six Conference games. All are chasing Gooding and will be rooting for Glenns Ferry.

In other Magic Valley loop action, The Raft River Trojans will be at Oakley, both teams having felt upon hard times in the win department of late. Deco, fresh from its best showing of the year, will be at Murtaugh and once again both must win to stay in the tight race.

Dietrich, knocked off by Carey in the Panthers' first winning effort of the year Tuesday, now is in a chasing situation when it hosts Camas County, which is running undefeated in the Northside Conference. Gooding State, with two wins under its belt, is favored to make it No. 1 at Bliss while Carey invades Richfield in one of those geographical hate things.

In the only non-conference game Friday, Kimberly will be at Hansen, holding a big height advantage.

On Saturday, the Little Five comes into play with Shoshone going to Valley. Wendell steps out of the loop to meet the Pirates at Hagerman and that's becoming a strong rivalry.

In the South Central Idaho Conference, Filer will travel to Jerome while Gooding will be home to Mountain Home. Wood River brings its young, short crew to Buhl, which is running second in the league.

On the Northside, Gooding State moves to Dietrich while Richfield travels to Camas County with perhaps enough height to give the Musers a solid at-home test.

White still mulls job offers

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—The day of war for Mike White's services as a head football coach could be resolved today, but don't bet on it.

White, an assistant under John Ralston for eight years, is mulling over three offers from Stanford and California for the head coaching post and from Ralston to join him as a pro assistant with the Denver Broncos.

White and two other Ralston assistants became the ones to choose from for the top job at Stanford. While Stanford officials put off making a decision, California decided it was time to shake up its athletic department with the idea of bringing in White as head coach.

White often has expressed a desire to return to Cal, his alma mater, as head coach. The opening came Tuesday night when Ray Wilsey, the nice-guy coach who irritated University administrators when he kept his word to Isaac Curtis in that celebrated case, quit.

CSI rips Boise frosh 84-50, hosts Ricks here Saturday

BOISE — Rick Sobers hit 17 of 21 shots Wednesday night to lead the Golden Eagles to an easy 84-50 victory over the Boise State frosh.

The victory, CSI's 11th in a row, brings the nationally seventh-ranked junior college team to the threshold of its first "big" game. The Eagles host Ricks College, 15-2, here Saturday night with the winner taking a leg up in entry in the regional tournament but more importantly, as the host team.

Thursday night's game was over just a few minutes after it started. The young Broncos stayed within four points over the first six minutes, trailing only 12-5. But Sobers then hit five straight points and after Cleveland got a BSC bucket, came back with four more as the Eagles opened up a 21-0 advantage.

They moved that to 20 points within a few more minutes with shots by Vic Kelly and Willie Williams hit consecutive CSI field goals that made it 35-15.

CSI moved ahead by more than 30 points in the second half and coasted home.

Stars batter Pros 143-118

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The Utah Stars, scoring 80 points in the first half, defeated the Memphis Pros 143-118 in an American Basketball Association home division game Wednesday night.

The Stars, who were never in trouble from the early moments, set a club record for the most points scored in a half. The old mark was 74 points established earlier this season against Carolina.

The Stars took the lead for keeps, 21-19 on a jumper by center Zelmo Beaty at 5:50 of the first period. Beaty, who finished the night with 28 points, outlasted the Pros and ended his team's fastbreak which wore out Memphis.

The Stars' defense forced the Pros into numerous turnovers as Utah built an 80-52 halftime margin.

Sub sparks Boise past Puget Sound

BOISE (UPI)—Steve Clifford came off the bench to score 23 points and lead Boise State College to an averaging 87-78 triumph over the University of Puget Sound Wednesday night.

The win upped BSC's record to 13-1 on the year and even the score against the loggers. Puget Sound had tripped the Broncos in Tacoma last month by five points. BSC's first defeat of the year, UPS is now 7-7.

Clifford, a 6-5 forward from San Diego, Calif., entered the game with Puget Sound holding a 27-26 lead, their only advantage of the game. BSC had frittered away early leads of 10-2 and 21-13 before Clifford and Bob McCollum led the Broncos on a 12-point spree just before and after halftime to give the Broncos a 13-point bulge which they maintained the rest of the way.

McCollum finished with 20 points and Greg Burnitz Burley had 18 as five Broncos finished in double figures. For Puget Sound, Ned Delmore was high with 21 and Sam May had 19.

Boise State shot 40 per cent from the floor while the loggers, forced to shoot outside against a tough Bronco zone, connected on 34 per cent. The loggers committed 25 turnovers while Boise State had 21.

Oregon's Frei resigns grid job

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—Jerry Frei resigned Wednesday as head football coach at the University of Oregon, after being under fire for his fourth losing season in five years at the Webfoots' helm.

Frei twice was named United Press International Coach of the Week in 1970, his best season when the Ducks were 4-1. In 1971 his team had a 5-6 mark, including the fifth consecutive loss to arch rival Oregon State.

Frei, 47, made his announcement at an afternoon meeting of his coaching staff and players following printed reports there was a shakeup coming in the Duck coaching staff and changes might include Frei. Frei said that at a Jan. 12 convention of the American Football Coaches Association in Hollywood, Fla., he had assured UO Athletic Director Norv Richey he intended to remain as head football coach.

However, upon his return to Eugene, Frei said in a statement issued Wednesday afternoon, "I reluctantly reached the conclusion that in the existing atmosphere of rumor and innuendo, it would be impossible for me to effectively carry on in the manner which I felt necessary to make continuing progress with our program."

Richey said that offensive line coach Dick Enright, 37, has announced his candidacy for the head coach's job. Enright completed his second season as the Ducks' offensive line coach after an eight-year coaching career at Gardena, Calif., that ended in 1969.

The status of Frei's remaining assistants in addition to Enright will be determined by Frei's successor, according to Richey. The remaining assistants include Bruce Snyder, Ron Stratton, George Seyfert and John Marshall.

Frei said his future plans were indefinite.

"Since the recruiting process is well underway," said Richey, "time is of great importance to us in naming a successor. Hopefully, we will be able to procure the new football coach within a short period of time."

Frei lost two assistants recently. Defensive coach Norm Chapman quit to go into private business and offensive coach John Robinson took an assistant coaching job under John Mackay at USC.

Frei said his action to quit was "difficult for me to initiate, but in my opinion, necessary."

"I am tremendously proud of the staff which worked with me and I am proud of the tradition of the 'Fighting Ducks' that we leave behind," he said.

"Perhaps more important, I have great confidence in the student-athletes that our staff will leave behind to carry on that tradition."

Callison sold to Yankees

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Cubs today announced the sale of outfielder Johnny Callison to the New York Yankees to reduce their roster to 27 players.

The Cubs signed three more players to bring the total under contract to 28. Callison was sold in a conditional deal in which the Yankees by May 1 must send the Cubs a player, make a cash settlement or return Callison.

Callison, whose first full major league season was in 1960, hit 210 with eight home runs and 38 runs batted in in 103 games last year.

Players who returned signed contracts were pitchers Milt Pappas, 32, Phil Regan, the oldest player on the Cubs at 34, and rookie Jim Todd.

Pappas last year had a career-high 17 wins and led for the league lead in shutouts with five to bring his career shutouts to 32, third high among the major leagues active pitchers. The only active hurlers with a higher total were Juan Marichal and Bob Gibson.

Saints to have six choices

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New Orleans Saints will have six extra choices in the National Football League's annual college player draft on Feb. 1, it was announced by the commission's office Wednesday.

Nine NFL clubs in all will have extra selections in the draft, which will include 42 players. Oakland, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Baltimore, San Diego, San Francisco, Dallas and Cleveland also will have at least one extra selection as a result of previous trades.

Gooding, Buhl top cage data

There's very little doubt as to why Gooding and Buhl are running one-two in the South Central Idaho Conference — those two teams apparently have the best individuals.

According to official statistics released today by league coaches, Gooding's 6-8 Frank Krahn is leading in field goal accuracy, points scored and rebounding, and can be found fifth in free throw shooting.

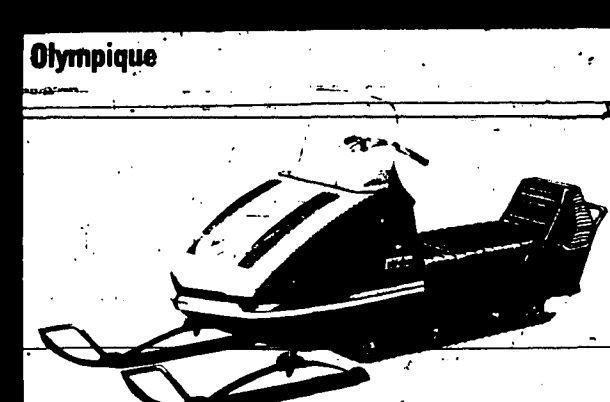

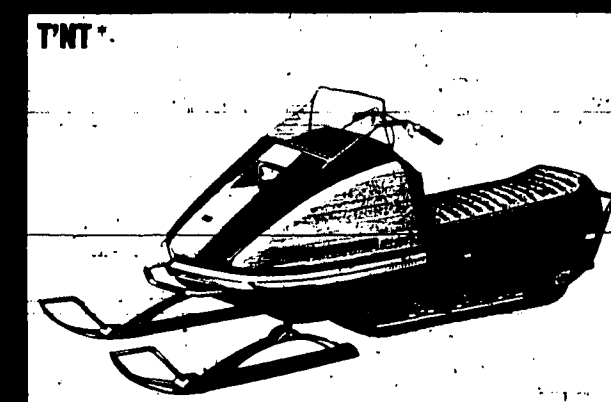

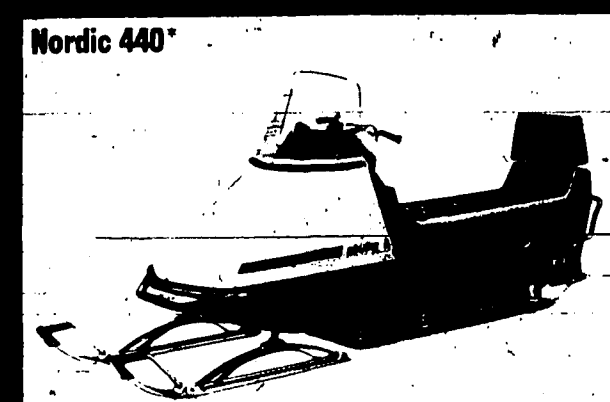

Teammate Gary Gorrell also shows up in all four categories. Buhl's 6-7 senior Kendall Meier seconds Krahn on two counts, is third in shooting and second in free throw accuracy.

Buhl also has two men showing up in all categories except rebounding, where it has three. The only individual to consistently break the statistical stranglehold held by those two teams is Jerome transfer, junior Randy Hogley.

Krahn, who scored 50 points last week to overhaul Meier in scoring, is in his fourth starting year.

Name vital to get help

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — When it comes to federal funds, appearance, it seems, is everything. Rep. Emery Hedlund, D-St. Maries, told the House Resources and Conservation Committee this week the name of the State Parks Department is important in this regard.

By changing it to the State Department of Parks and Recreation, he said, Idaho stands a good chance of getting a big, extra chunk of federal money. Hedlund said only a simple name change is sought. He said the function and authority of the department does not have to be altered.

Union leader backs Muskie

By United Press International
Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine won the endorsement Wednesday of the head of the 500,000-member American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, the first union leader to declare public support for any Democratic presidential contender.

Jerry Wurf, president of the largest government workers union, told newsmen that Muskie was "the strongest and best" Democrat available to unite the party for victory in November. Wurf conceded that some of his union members doubtless will be supporting other candidates.

Two skiers found

MCCALL (UPI) — Two skiers who lost their way in the Grandeur Mountain were found by searchers today. John W. Parker and Robert Wismar, graduate students at the University of Idaho, were lost 10 miles but were in good and authority in making their decisions. As a case in point, Hedlund cited a public golf course at his hometown of St. Maries. He said Hedlund donated the land to the county so it could apply for federal funds to improve the course and its greens for the community's benefit.

Then he said, the Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation told the local authorities the government would help pay for the project but would not assist in well draining or greens improvement. Why?

Well, Hedlund said, the BOR explained that the funds must be used for "community recreation." Now, if a small park or a children's play area were included, he said, the BOR said it would assist in improving the area.

That put the project into a higher priority, Hedlund said. "Doesn't this sound silly to you?" Hedlund shook his head in disgust. "This is just one little instance," he said. "We might have lots and lots of them around the state."

Humphrey, the Minnesota senator and former vice president, campaigned in Ohio Wednesday for an all-party delegate state he will field against Muskie in that state's May 2 Democratic primary

Loyal daughter

JULIE NIXON EISENHOWER, younger daughter of President Nixon, predicts her father would win re-election because of the record he has established in four years in office. Mrs. Eisenhower, 23, said she hopes to campaign actively for her father this year as she did in 1968 when she visited 37 states. (UPI)

IES secretary criticizes proposals

BOISE (UPI) — The executive secretary of the Idaho Education Association criticized several legislative proposals Wednesday, including one to make the State Land Board an appointive body. Wayne York told the Senate Resources and Environment Committee the IEA felt the superintendent of public instruction should be a member of any State Land Board since the board will oversee disposition of the endowment funds which support public schools.

York criticized the legislation which would make the five-member Land Board appointive. The legislation would go into effect if Idaho voters approve a proposed constitutional amendment to abolish the present State Land Board made up of five elected officials.

superintendent of public instruction a permanent member of the board. Manley indicated, however, there are grounds for placing a representative of education on any Land Board.

York also indicated concern over a proposal to allow leasing of state lands for periods of up to 25 years rather than the 10-year limit outlined in the Idaho Admissions Act. Manley said, however, the Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation is unwilling to lend its support to parks if the lease is not for 25 years.

York also questioned another proposed constitutional amendment which would allow disposal of public lands for the "greatest public benefit" rather than the "maximum amount."

"We've always thought the maximum amount is of greatest public benefit," he said.

LOSE 20 POUNDS IN TWO WEEKS!

Famous U.S. Women's Ski Team Diet
During the non-snow off season the U.S. Women's Alpine Ski Team members go on the "Ski Team" diet to lose 20 pounds in two weeks. That's right—20 pounds in 14 days! The basis of the diet is chemical food action and was devised by a famous Colorado physician especially for the U.S. Ski Team. Normal energy is maintained (very important!) while reducing. You keep "full"—no starvation—because the diet is designed that way! It's a diet that is easy to follow whether you work, travel or stay at home.

This is honestly a fantastically successful diet. If it weren't, the U.S. Women's Ski Team wouldn't be permitted to use it! Right? So, give yourself the same break the U.S. Ski Team gets. Lose weight the scientific, proven way. Even if you've tried all the other diets, you owe it to yourself to try the U.S. Women's Ski Team Diet. That is, if you really do want to lose 20 pounds in two weeks! Order today—Tear this out as a reminder.

Send only $2.00 ($2.25 for Rush Service)—cash is O.K.—to: Ski Team Diet, P.O. Box 15493, San Diego, Calif. 92115. Don't order unless you expect to lose 20 pounds in two weeks! Because that's what the Ski Team Diet will do!
